

Master of Music Learning Outcomes

- I. All students will acquire and refine their knowledge of content in music research so that they will be able to apply their knowledge to their specific disciplines, e.g., creating a strong pedagogical base, conduct scholarship, inform performance practice and techniques and philosophies in compositions.
- II. All students will acquire and refine their skills in analysis and prosaic writing, both in their chosen specialization and as complete musicians.
- III. All students discuss ethical standards of research in the profession and reflect on their musical values.